Brown. total are of Choroles and as great bers of the 1718, Elece the recent of claims of the 1717 at States court of claims denoted the incommercial whites who may not take the tribe whites who married into the tribe since November 7 any right to participate in the distribution of the funds and property of the tribe, there have been evertures looking to a compromise. Mr. Hurchings, an atterney of Indian Territory, who was here w, a the delegation which sought a postponement of the collection of the Creek tribal tax, while here submit-Creek tribal tax, while here submit-ted a compromise proposition to Secretary Hitchrock. The offer was to allow the intermarried whites to be placed on the roll of the Cherokee Nation and received allotments, but to pay for the land at a stipulated price. PREFECT OF POLICE ASSASSINAT-There are about 2,500 who would come in under this compromise, and the sale of the land would bring in three quarters of a million dollars into the Cherokes treasury, it is estimated, which it would not otherwise receive Secretary Hitchcock has not approved the compromise proposition. In fact, he has stated that he could not vio late the provisions of the law and treather by acceding to it.

Mr. Zevely thinks that some such compromise would be fair and just to all parties concerned but he has ideas about getting at it which are different from Mr. Hitchcocks, and will probably call on Secretary Hitch cock at his summer home in Dublin. N. H., while cast, to talk the matter over with him.

Mr. Zevely says that naturally the secretary could not act on a compramise improperly submitted to him, but thinks that with the endorsement of the Cherokee tribal council and th approval of the president, some consideration might be shown it. It is likely that the Cherokee tribal cosmcil will be convened soon to take up the matter. The council is believed to be favorable to the proposition. Conapproval all down the line.

Indignation.

Law Notes relates that Albert E. Pillsbury, former attorney general of Massachusetts, on visiting the birthplace of Horace Greeley in Amberst. N. H., noticed that there was no placard about the place to inform the public of its historical interest. Accordingly he himself tacked on the bouse a card which read; "This is the birthplace of Horace Greeley." While he was engaged at this task a passing native paused to read the card, and turning to Mr. Pillsbury, he remarked with some acidity: "The gall of some of you fellers that hev made money in the city is fairly sick'nin'. What do you suppose folks here care whether you was born on this farm or some other farm? Them's my sentiments, Mr. Greeley, and don't you forgit it!"

Cleverly Evaded.

A wealthy Australian squatter in order to protect his six daughters from fortune hunters left his property to them in equal shares, but decreed that If either married without the consent of the trustees she should forfeit her share to her sisters. When the case came up at Sydney it was found that the six sisters had all married without permission, and thus each had forfeited her share in the property to her sisters, a state of affairs which the ladies doubtless considered highly sat infactory.
